Customer Information: Part of our Safety Management System requires all clients to complete a Customer Information Form, this form requires you to make a medical and dive experience declaration as well as sign an Affirmation and Liability Release Statement.

A copy of this form can be downloaded from this site and copies will be available prior to your activity with Go Dive. Please take the time to review this document before your arrival if possible.

Tour Departures: On confirmation of your reservation we will advise you of the time and place of departure. If the reservation is made outside 48hrs of the departure, you will be asked to check in by phone or email the day prior to departure in order to check on the status of the tour and reconfirm departure details.

If your time of arrival is delayed, please let Go Dive know as soon as possible, otherwise we cannot guarantee that the tour will wait for your arrival and no refund will apply.

Weather and client assessment: On occasion the weather or client ability may be assessed as medium to high risk and we may need to change the dive venue or cancel the trip once it is underway.

In the case that we assess that a client is putting themselves, other clients, or staffs health and safety at risk, they will be requested to end their dive/days diving activities while the rest of the group continues. No refund applies in such circumstances.

On rare occasions the weather may prevent us from diving our preferred dive site once the tour is underway. Go Dive staff have years of experience in assessing dive conditions, we will offer an alternative dive site if our assessment of the site conditions is such that we consider it to be unsafe or that it will not provide an enjoyable experience for guests. We may postpone or cancel the tour, charter or dive prior to departure if we consider the site conditions are not appropriate for the same reasons.

Exposure to altitude after diving: Due to an increase in elevation when driving after diving on some of our tours, we require a precautionary three hour sea level surface interval between surfacing and travel. Dive exposure times will also be controlled by Go Dive and based on previous dives, depth and time exposure.

Hunting and Collecting: Unless participating in a planned hunting and collecting dive we do not allow the collection of marine life or wreck artefacts on Go Dive tours.

If participating on a planned hunting and collecting dive while on a Port Gore based dive tour or charter we have a self-imposed limit to the amount of shellfish, crayfish and finfish each diver can take. This is normally limited to what can be reasonably consumed in an evening meal back at the Lodge.

Guided Dives: The first two dives on all tours are guided. On multi day Lermontov tours we do not necessarily provide a guide after the first day. If you would like to be guided beyond the first days diving please inform us of this when making your reservation, an extra guide fee may apply in some circumstances. Dives will be guided to areas suitable to the least experienced member of each team.

Penetration Dives: These are possible for those with the experience and qualifications to match. View our Lermontov Penetration Guide for information on where you may be able to dive. Note that guided penetration dives are possible only after an assessment dive on the outside of the wreck and at the sole discretion of our guides.

We do not guide technical dives unless on request at time of reservation, this will be assessed on a dive by dive basis. An extra charge may apply in such circumstances.*

Equipment Rental: Go Dive supply standard scuba equipment and wetsuits for our tours if required. If you require accessories like torches, computers or technical equipment please inform us of this requirement when making your booking. Equipment lost or damaged while in use will need to be replaced by the client at replacement value.

Using your own equipment: You are welcome to use your own equipment; however, it must be fit for purpose and in good serviceable order. If in doubt, especially your level of exposure protection please discuss your concern with Go Dive staff prior to departure.

Nitrox: If you would like to dive Enriched Air, please let us know at time of booking.

Dietary Requirements:

If you have any special dietary requirements we need to know at the time you make your reservation. In some cases an extra fee may apply so we can meet your requirements.

Payment of extras:

Payments for Nitrox, T-Shirts and other products must be made prior to the end of the tour.
